

CAPITAL ADEQUACY - FUNDAMENTAL ELEMENT OF BANKING REGULATIONS

Author Daschievici Anișoara Niculina

N/A

Abstract:

The banking capital, also it has a relative reduced weight in the banking balance sheet, represents a fundamental element concerning the gestion of any kind of risks with that it confronts a banking society. The adaptable of the capital like the restricted measure imposed to the banks, represents the based preoccupation for the banking settlement, because a banking system make from deeply capitalized banks, it will overtake more easier a lot of intern obstacle.

Keywords: capital, bank, intern obstacle

JEL codes:: G21, G28